With the examination provided they prove their understanding of the already attained knowledge. Applying knowledge and understanding Students practice all topics taught in application tasks and prove their understanding while working on their assignments and presentations. Making judgements Students learn to analyse situations and are encouraged to devise and sustain arguments about basic cases concerning international law.

	Communication Results obtained are discussed and presented in class and in the assignment. Learning skills As explained under "Verwendbarkeit", this module provides necessary skills needed for coping with the requirements of later studies.
Inhalte des Moduls / Syllabus	It is not possible to regard merely law as a purely national matter. Most aspects of law are influenced by and interacting with International and European sources of law. The international exchange of goods, people, services, and capital – especially in the market of the EU –, the growing mobility of companies as well as the worldwide communication require a certain view in dealing with cross-border transactions. In this context, international organizations, such as UN, EU etc., as well as contractually agreed instruments for dispute settlement, are particularly important. The intergovernmental cooperation of international and supranational organizations affect economic developments with regard to the protection of fundamental rights and freedoms in view of restrictions of competition. Altogether, the knowledge of International and European Law gained in this lecture, encourages the critical understanding of the workings of national law.

Qualifikationsziele des Moduls / Learning outcomes of the Module	Knowledge & Understanding Students understand the concept of effective leadership in an international context as well as its application and relevance to manage daily business. In addition, they are capable of being a valuable team player in a multicultural team. Furthermore, students acquire basic understanding of the science of psychology, the different approaches developed over the course of history, the interplay between reason and emotion, consciousness and subconsciousness, group and individual(s),

	human typology, psychological aspects of leadership, and the road and obstacles to peak performance Applying Knowledge & Understanding The students learn how to address challenging situations, both from the perspective of leadership and team member. They understand that a one-dimensional leadership style is not sufficient to become a successful international leader. Selected examples from different cultural backgrounds confront the students with a specific intercultural thinking that enables them to react accordingly. They will be able to form teams and provide them with clear vision, mission, values and strategic goals. The discussion of theory/theories is accompanied by numerous experiments. Making judgments Students will be able to identify and analyse leadership styles and reflect the strength and weaknesses in the relevant context. They will be able to think in terms of value and transform it into a sustainable growth of a company value. Furthermore, they are able to give recommendations for further discussions. The competence is gained by lectures, guest lectures and case studies. Moreover, the experiments carried out in class will ensure that students can obtain a first evaluation of the validity & usefulness of theories discussed. Communication Results of group work are presented in oral and written form. The students get prepared to answer relevant intercultural questions related to the topics. Also, the results obtained are communicated in both oral presentations and readers. Learning skills This module enables students to successfully lead intercultural teams as well as being valuable team members. The module prepares also the students for understanding themselves and others better, for communicating more effectively, for enhancing their leadership skills and for achieving peak performance even in difficult settings.
